

Marietta, Georgia Board of Light and Water Selects Geographic Technologies Group (GTG) to Implement New GeoBlade for GBA Master Series Solution

Goldsboro, NC – Geographic Technologies Group, Inc. (GTG) announced today that Marietta, Georgia Board of Light and Water has procured software and services from GTG. The City procured GTG's GeoBlade Viewer for GBA Master Series.

GeoBlade Viewer for GBA Master Series is a powerful desktop GIS application that allows users to view GBA Master Series data in a spatial context. Using industry-standard GIS technology, GeoBlade Viewer provides an intuitive, easy-to-use interface that enables users to analyze and visualize GBA Master Series data and base GIS data layers in an integrated manner.

Curtis Hinton, CEO and Co-owner of GTG, stated that, "We are very excited to continue our long working relationship with Marietta BLW. We have been working with them since the inception of their GIS. The implementation of GeoBlade Viewer signifies the next step in their evolution. Marietta BLW has aggressively pursued GIS across the enterprise and understands that GIS must add value to existing investments. We have leveraged the innovative GeoBlade technology and have worked hand-in-hand with staff from GBA Master Series to deliver the perfect tool-set for Marietta BLW."
